TELL OF MURDER ON SHIP AT SEA

Brooklyn Police Investigate the Report that a Man Was Slain in Stokehole of Steamer Tennyson.

STORY CAME OUT AFTER SHE HAD LEFT THE PORT

The Body Is Said to Have Been Thrown Overboard and Old Hands Were Instructed to Guard Secret.

The Brooklyn police are investigating a report that a murder was committed in the hold of the steamer Tennyson on its last trip to this port from Ric and West Indian points. The Tennyson left the Brooklyn docks Monday for Rio, and as soon as she was under way the story of the murder spread

It is said that when a day out from this port two firemen in the stokehole of the ship quarrelled and that one of them threw a shovelful of hot coals on the other. The latter ran for an iron ladder, and, while mounting it, was struck on the head with an iron bar. The blow killed him. According to the story the body was thrown overboard and the members of the crew who were witnesses were cautioned to say nothing of the matter while in port.

Several of the crew went to a theatre last Saturday night and while there Second Steward Charles Eldrade tried to leave. Herbert Mantell, of the crew, tried to prevent him and Mantell says that Eldrade out him on the wrist with

The next day when Mantell met Eldrade on the deck of the Tennyson the cuarrel was renewed and in a scuffle Mantell shot Eldrade in the thigh. Mantell was arrested and is now in the Ray-mond street jail awaiting trial.

When the story of the murder in the stoke hole reached the police they went to Mantell and asked him concerning it. He said he had heard of it, but knew nothing definitely about the crime. Before coming into port, he said, it was whispered among the crew that a fireman had been killed in a fight in the stoke hole and that his body had been weighted and thrown overboard the weighted and thrown overcome the night before the Tennyson reached port. He did not know any of the details. He had been told not to talk about it. The police are now trying to find some one along the water-front who came up on the Tennyson's last trip and who can tell something definitely.

WRONG TWIN WAS BEING LED TO CELL

The Other Was the Prisoner and was About to Walk Out of Court When a Policeman Recognized Him.

The three justices of the Court of special Sessions were confronted by twin brothers as prisoner and complain able similarity of the pair the sentence of the Court almost fell upon the shoulders of the injured brother. The twins were William and Fred

Otto, of No. 160 Delancey street, twentynine years and three months old They are each 5 feet 3 inches in height and weight HI pounds. They were dressed in blue serge suits and black bow ties. When the two men were arraigned Jus-tice Wyatt asked what the charge was and which was the prisoner,

Lawyer Philip Goodhart stepped to the bar and said: "I represent the com-plainant." Then he stopped and looked the twins over, after which he added: But I'll be blessed if I can tell which an eye in a broad blue frame.

Just then one of the two men dropped his hand from his forehead, revealing

"There's my client," shouted Lawyer Loodhart, "the one with the black eye, I forget whether his name is Fred or William, but he told me that his brother

"Fifteen days," gald Justice Wyatt. Court Officer Burton stepped forward seized one of the twins by the arm and led him of rapidly toward the Bridge of Sighs. The other man started briskly joriskly for the door, but just as he was going out Court Officer Burke noticed that he was not the twin with the black eye. He ran the escaping prisoner back to the bar and another officer was sent for the other twin who had been vainly protesting in Bohemian against being taken to the Tombs.

The matter was then adjusted and the proper prisoner was locked up. Both mea. are barbers. seized one of the twins by the arm and Don't the style of the clothes in the above illustration look familiar to you? Haven't you seen them in places frequented by the best dressed men, and thought they had cost $75 at some exclusive tailor's? That's characteristic of Vogel Brothers' Clothing; they cost the same as ordinary ready-made, yet they look like the product of high-price tailors. Not only do they look good, but they are good, because the fabrics used are stanch and durable and the making of the insides is all hand tailored, so that the coat fronts always hold their shape.

At $15, Black Overcoats, Silk Lined,

These $15 black Overcoats are cut in the medium length style, as shown in cut, reaching a little below the knee; the back hangs loose in graceful folds from the shoulders, which are very broad; the collars and lapels are very long and narrow. The material is a beautiful unfinished black worsted, silk lined to the edge. Our special

At $15, Black Double-Breasted Sack Suits.

At $15, the Three-Button Cutaway Sack.

This type of sack suit is the newest thing and is very much the go with young men. They have a great deal of snap and style about them, which is evident in the broad, shapely shoulders, extremely long lapels and collars. The cut of the front of the coat is a radical change—it is cut away from the last button in decided, sharp lines. Black Thibet is the material—$15 the special price.
